Course Description

This course introduces the student to the spectrum of financial institutions that operate in the global economy—depository, contractual and investment institutions—and the wide array of markets in which they trade. The economic roles of the financial institutions and major trends in the financial system are analyzed within the existing regulatory environment. Significant focus is devoted to operational issues in the financial system, particularly regarding risk: interest rate risk, liquidity risk, market risk, credit risk, operations risk, technology risk, as well as foreign exchange, political and sovereign risks. The course discusses key regulatory issues, as well as introducing Islamic finance.

Prerequisites: ECN 4105, ECN 4110, and
FNN 5200 or ECN 5210

Aims and Objectives:

This Course enables the student to understand the nature and role of the financial system within the broader economy. Its primary focus is on the financial markets and financial institutions which are key components of the financial system. Significant focus is devoted to operational
