Course Description:

This core course focuses on you as a student, an active citizen and a future employable graduate. How can you use London, with all its attractions and all its problems, to help others whilst helping yourself? In this course, students will make full use of the research undertaken last semester, and the full range of skills being developed, to get involved in service learning in London and reflect critically on the effects both on themselves and on others.

This is the second course in the Richmond Transitions sequence.

Prerequisites: GEP 3100

Aims and Objectives:

The aim of this course is to equip students more fully with a series of attributes applicable both to their transition to university life, by becoming effective independent learners, and to the demands of the workplace today and tomorrow. In the second semester it aims to build on and further develop skills introduced in the previous semester, specifically

- enhanced oral presentation skills through a presentation about a community activity, employing a range of digital literacy skills
- self-organisational skills through preparation for and completion of a community activity/activities
- social perceptiveness, awareness of difference and ethical issues, effective listening, teamwork, leadership and communication skills through involvement in a community activity
- critical thinking and reflective writing through a reflective journal, taking account of previous goals set, and employing enhanced digital literacy skills which show an awareness of audience with a range of needs

Programme Outcomes:

A1, A2, A5, A9, B1, B2, B3, B4, B5, B7, B8, B9, B10, B11, B12

A detailed list of the programme outcomes are found in the Programme Specification.

Learning Outcomes:

By the end of this course, successful students should be able to:

- critically reflect on progress towards achieving short-term and long-term goals for university, further academic and professional life and future employability
- understand and implement the enhanced skills required to make an effective oral presentation
- apply knowledge of the use of an increasing range of search techniques, software and applications to carry out specific tasks
- show understanding of the effects of active citizenship both on themselves and others in the community

Indicative Content:

Transition to the University community:

- Progress towards goals
- Development of transferable skills: includes emotional intelligence and leadership
- CV creation
- Course planning

Academic skills across the curriculum:

- Enhanced oral presentation skills

- Using online resources to enhance accessibility
- Using social media as a project and an employability tool
- Enhanced graphic presentation skills

Assessment:

This course conforms to the Richmond University Service Learning and Internship Assessment Norms to be approved by LTPC

Teaching Methodology:

During the second semester, community activities will take the place of some specified time in the classroom, but regular one-to-one or small group meetings to provide support and discuss progress will also take place, leading to individual self-reflection. Students will be encouraged to share experiences and provide peer feedback on classroom tasks and activities. Peer mentors and senior students will also share their related experiences, and student affairs personnel will provide support and advice. Digital literacy skills will be taught and practised in the computer lab and on laptops in the classroom, with experimentation outside the classroom.
