Course Description:

This course concentrates in consolidating and developing journalistic reporting skills. Particular attention will be given to the teaching of specialized reporting skills (such as how to cover major incidents, political events, etc) and of investigative journalism techniques. Students will learn from case studies of complex and high profile investigations and acquire techniques of investigative reporting, so that they can plan, research and write an investigative feature of public concern or in the public interest. The emphasis of the course is on developing independent reporting skills.

Pre-requisites and/or Co-requisites: JRN 4200 and JRN 5200

Aims and Objectives:

This course will help students to develop reporting and investigative journalism, and to appreciate the role and ethical challenges of the communications professional. At the end of the course successful students should be able to:

- Have a detailed understanding of different reporting techniques and of when to apply them to specific situations.

- A detailed understanding of advanced research skills including computer-assisted research, the effective use of public records and databases, the Freedom of Information Act, and other complex information.
- The ability to use different reporting techniques
- The ability to apply ethical and legal standards to their writing and reporting
