Course Description:

This course examines the history of London from its earliest origins as a prehistoric meeting place to its present function as a major political, cultural and financial centre. Students will be introduced to the social, historical and physical evolution of the city. Classroom lectures will be complemented by regular weekly visits to significant locations and sites of historic interest throughout the city. Note: visits may require some entrance costs. This course is not open to Richmond degree-course students.

Prerequisites: N/A

Aims and Objectives:

The course aims to cover the history of London from its prehistoric origins to the modern era. This course will study the great economic, social and political changes that have occurred throughout the centuries on this capital city. By exploring the artistic, primary sources and architecture materials students will understand how the city developed as a parallel to the history of Britain. The course is designed to be interactive, and students are expected to attend lectures, seminars, and field trips to important and historically relevant locations around London.

Programme Outcomes:

3.1(i); 3.2(i); 3.3(i); 3.4 (i)

A detailed list of the programme outcomes is found in the Programme Specification. This is maintained by Registry and located at:
