Course Description:

Provides an appreciation of the political, social and cultural developments that have defined the United States since 1972. Starting with the break in at the Watergate, the course considers the events, personalities and politics that contributed to make the ensuing 4 decades so turbulent and memorable. Particular attention is paid to issues of relative decline, the impact of Watergate and Vietnam on the national psyche, the rise of the new right and the new south, and the evolving role of minority groups. The course will address the manner in which the United States emerged from the Cold War but found little peace, domestically or internationally, in the aftermath.

Prerequisites: HST 4105

Aims and Objectives:

- To explain the political, cultural and social changes that occurred in this era of U.S. History
- To analyse the manner in which the United States changed from 1972- 2008
- To examine the key historical events that defined the US in this era
- To convey an appreciation of the contribution of key individuals to the development of organisations and institutions during the era.

Assessment:

This course conforms to the University Assessment Norms approved at Academic Board.

Term Paper (4,000 words)	50%
Final Exam (2 hours):	50%

Teaching Methodology:

The course will be taught through a combination of lectures and seminar classes. Lectures are primarily designed to give an overview of the issues and problems on a particular topic, and thereby provide guidance for seminar discussion. Seminars will be used for debates and group/sub-group discussion, and are intended to provide an interactive and participatory learning environment. Students are expected to do the set readings for each week, and to be prepared to contribute to class discussion and discussion sub-groups. The general approach to classes is informal, and discussion is viewed as an essential part of learning.
