Module/Course Description:

This course examines the major issues that underlie the development of United States' foreign policy. The course considers the theoretical and actual implementation of foreign policy, firstly by examining the constitutionally mandated practitioners of such policy and secondly by exploring the execution of policy in a series of case studies covering the latter half of the Twentieth Century and early Twenty-First Century. Individuals, structures and theories are examined and explained in a course designed to convey the complexities that contribute to the formulation of U.S. Grand Strategy.

Pre-requisites: INR 4100

Aims and Objectives:

- To provide an understanding of U.S. Grand Strategy and foreign policy principles in a theoretically and historically informed way.
- To explain the social, cultural, economic and political pressures that drives the implementation and execution of U.S. Grand Strategy.
- To address the pillars of post-1940 US policy
- To explain the importance of structures and government departments in the formulation of policy.

- To examine the role played by key individuals in the history of U.S. foreign policy and the development of Grand Strategy.
- To apply the theoretical understanding to a series of case studies to explain how theory does or does not drive policy.
