Course Description:

Senior Seminar in American Studies 2 is the second half of the two-semester sequence of courses taken by American Studies majors in their Senior year, culminating in the submission of a dissertation 8,000 to 10,000 words in length. Students are guided through the various stages of drafting and revising their final dissertation, and orally present their research according to conference standards as part of the formative process.

Prerequisites:

AMS 6296 Senior Seminar in American Studies I

Aims and Objectives:

- To help students develop self-directed and more advanced research and writing strategies that reflect a systematic engagement with a key issue related to their specific interests in American Studies
- To enable students to achieve the submission of a final dissertation, and an oral presentation of their research
- To provide a background for eventual careers in fields which require articulate, clear-thinking individuals with a grasp of American Studies
- To foster the acquisition, development, and consolidation of a variety of interdisciplinary and transferable skills through the study of particular themes in American Studies
- To promote critical engagement with a wide range of primary and secondary historical sources, and the development of both a succinct writing style and the ability to present complex arguments orally

Programme Outcomes:

AMS: 6A(iv); 6B(iv); 6C(i); 6C(ii); 6C(iii); 6C(iv); 6D (i); 6D(iii); 6D(iv)

A detailed list of the programme outcomes is found in the Programme Specification. This is located at the archive maintained by Registry and found at:

Learning Outcomes:

- Students should demonstrate the ability to carry through their research design that was begun in Senior Seminar in American Studies 1 by using evidence, data and information from a range of primary and secondary sources. Students should present their research findings in an analytical way, revealing their scholarly activities using wide ranging and multiple sources.
- Students should demonstrate their analytical and interpretive skills through this dissertation which is expected to show the development of rational and logical progression of ideas, arguments, and evidence. Students should critically assess the information gathered, extend their ability for critical appraisal, and consolidate their knowledge of their subject based on work from previous courses.
- Students should demonstrate an understanding of theories that are relevant to their topic as well as utilise explicit and identifiable methodological and/or historiographical approaches.
- Student should demonstrate an ability to actively engage in the feedback/editing process in a timely and systematic manner and take responsibility for their own learning and development.
- Students demonstrate the ability to make a coherent and engaging 10-minute oral presentation to their peers in a formal conference-style setting.
